

"Who Am I?"

Galatians 4:4-7

In our fast-paced world, we are bombarded with images and ideas of how we should define ourselves. We're told that money matters, looks matter, being seen with the right people matters. The list goes on. If we're not careful, we can buy into those ideas and begin to let culture define and determine our value. We spend a lot of time and energy trying to "play the part;" and at the end of the day, we walk away tired and frustrated of playing the game. As followers of Christ, we only need to be worried about an audience of One. The Bible gives a clear picture of our definition and value as children of God.
